Authorized Workers' Compensation Network Providers

If your work-related accident results in the need for medical treatment, and is not an emergency, you must immediately report the injury to your supervisor before seeking medical treatment. You are required to seek medical treatment at an authorized workers' compensation network provider nearest your work location.

Employees injured during normal business hours must seek initial treatment at the Health and Wellness Centers.

ACCESSING MEDICAL TREATMENT AFTER NORMAL BUSINESS HOURS

Employees involved in a work-related accident that occurs after normal business hours that requires immediate medical treatment should go to the nearest urgent care facility, hospital emergency room or call 911. Whenever possible, employees should attempt to access one of the District-approved urgent care facilities or hospitals.

Examples of when an employee should use an urgent care facility or hospital emergency room as initial treatment for a work related injury or illness:

1. The injury or illness is life threatening.
2. An employee is involved in an accident at the end of the day and the injury is serious enough that he or she cannot wait until the next business day to seek medical treatment.
3. The work-related injury or illness occurs after normal business hours or the District's administrative office is closed.

After receiving treatment with an urgent care facility or hospital emergency room, you must follow up with the Health and Wellness Center for evaluation and a release to return to work. If the accident occurred after hours and you sought medical treatment, you must report the injury by 8:30 am the next business day.
